As a child, Eric dreamed of playing professional football and excelling in the corporate world. Not one willing to have a dream deferred, he excelled in the classroom and on the field earning a football scholarship to USC. His time at USC provided him with the foundation necessary to achieve all of his goals. He now dreams of finding a cure for ALS, and through his partnership with Augie's Quest, plans to attack the issue with same passion that has fueled his successful professional career.

Currently he is a partner in automotive dealerships with Ronnie Lott and Keena Turner. Eric serves as a mentor and inspiration to everyone at the company. He does not believe in titles, preferring to work hard and help others achieve their potential.

In addition to his successful professional endeavors, Eric is a devoted husband and father.

Eric lives by the famous quote: "If you don't stand for something, you will fall for anything."

Please stand with us.
